RISING PORK PRICES BOON FOR FARMERS

Quotations On Hogs Are Steadily Advancing In Livestock Markets.

(BULLETIN)
CHICAGO, Jan. 24—Moderate receipts of hogs today plus a strong demand from shippers elevated prices 15 to 25c above Wednesday's final quotations. Top was $10.15, highest since last October. Most of the good hogs of all weights sold at $9.75 to $10.10.

With hog receipts of 38,000 on the Chicago market and an advance from 25 to 45 per hundred on the market accompanied with an advance of 40 to 50 cents on the Pittsburgh market and with hogs in a stronger position apparently throughout the country the producer might well avail himself of the opportunity to top out those hogs of the medium weight and heavy class which carry good finish, County Agent H. S. Lewis declared Thursday.

The old custom of marketing the entire hog crop is rapidly giving place to the more business like and profitable system of topping out according to grade, those hogs which carry market finish and then utilize the remaining feed to better advantage in increasing the profits and finish on hogs are reflected back to the producer, he asserted. During January, February and March, this means in many instances an opportunity to make up for losses experienced during sudden changes in market runs and market prices of different times in the year.

Hog prices run in cycles and the upward trend in prices should not be far distant for the hog farmer of today, even though this present rise may not be a substantial advance. The downward grade in this cycle has certainly been completed, Mr. Lewis declared.

Corn, tankage, and minerals properly fed are yielding a creditable return to the hog producer of today, according to Mr. Lewis.

SENATE READY TO ENACT NEW CRUISER BILL

Way For Passage of Measure Cleared By Approval of Appropriations.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.--With leaders predicting its enactment by the weekend, the senate today resumed consideration of the administration's new cruiser bill, which proposes to eliminate some of the naval inequality between the United States and Great Britain.

The path for action on the naval bill was cleared by enactment of the first deficiency appropriation bill, with a compromise agreement concerning the $75,000,000 item for payment of federal tax refunds. An amendment was added to the bill, under which the money can be paid only on refunds ordered after a public hearing and the decision on which has been made public. This satisfied the Democratic-Insurgent coalition which originally sough to strip Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon of all authority over tax refunds in excess of $10,000.

HAS RIGHT OF WAY

The first deficiency bill meanwhile was returned to the house, which must approve not only the tax refund item but the $24,250,000 appropriated for better enforcement of prohibition.

The cruiser bill however, had the right of way in the senate. Administration leaders reported they had secured a gentleman's agreement from the opposition not to filibuster against the bill.

If such an agreement was actually made, the naval bill probably will become a law by Saturday. If the opposition does filibuster, its fate will remain in doubt as two important appropriation bills—the agricultural and the independent offices supply bills—are pending in the senate and must be enacted promptly.

BRITTEN HAS PLAN

A movement has been launched in the house though to provide for the building of five cruisers and an aircraft carrier, even if the construction bill should be held up in the senate. Rep. Britten (R.) of Illinois, sponsored the plan, which called for adding a $12,500,000 item to the regular naval appropriation bill to be used in launching work on the new cruiser program.

The administration's bill calls for the construction of 15 new fast cruisers and one huge aircraft carrier. It carries authorization for the expenditure of $274,000,000 but gives the president authority to halt the building program at any time.

OHIO PASTORS OPPOSED

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 24.—The senate will be asked to postpone action on the cruiser bill, pending the appointment of a non-partisan commission to study "the whole question of national defense," by the Ohio Pastors' convention now in session here.

A portion of the resolution read: "We urge upon Congress our high resolve to oppose such increase of armament as is inconsistent with our peaceful professions." The proposed commission would be "of eminent jurists, educators and men of affairs," to be appointed by the president.

TRIO OF DEAD UNIDENTIFIED

Nameless Graves Yawn For Bodies Mangled In Bus-Traction Crash.

BELLEVUE, O., Jan. 24—Two of the five bodies remaining in Bellevue morgues, following the bus crash Tuesday, were identified today.

One was that of F. A. Kodit, Swartz Creek, Mich., and the other that of William R. Inke, of Bunnell, Fla.

Kodit's identification was made possible by the number on an eyeglass case, found in his pockets.

The bodies of two white men and a negro woman, all unclaimed and unidentified, still lay in undertaking establishments here.

One correction in the list of dead developed last night. A man whose name had been carried as Elmer Almond, 41 S. Forest-ave., Youngstown, was identified as Elmer Alexander, of that address.

Many of the victims were mangled beyond possibility of recognition. One of the unidentified dead is believed to have been a pal of Teddy Brawski, of Brooklyn, who confessed before he died yesterday morning that he had a long record as a gunman and bandit.

Reports that Brawski had a large amount of money on his person could not be verified today. Police refused to comment.

Russell Mack, of Albion, Mich., was still unconscious at Bellevue hospital this morning and his recovery is doubtful. Mrs. Eleanora Houghtby, of Cleevland, was also reported in serious condition but physicians expect her to recover. All the other patients in the hospital here and at Norwalk.

BAN NEW DUNTON BOOK IN BOSTON

Meanwhile the sale of the book is increasing rapidly with the announcement of the interdict from the "Watch and Ward" society in the town, where they first started banning things in 1773 at the Boston Tea party.

MORROW TO STAY ENVOY

Reports Say Mexican Ambassador Will Be Asked To Retain Post.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Jan. 24—Dwight W. Morrow's future status in public service, if any, probably will be determined within the next week.

The banker diplomat who left his position as a member of the firm of J. P. Morgan to take over the ambassadorship to Mexico at a time when Washington had almost despaired of ever reestablishing cordial relations with Mexico City, was a breakfast guest this morning of President-elect Hoover, at his Belle Isle retreat. He came from Nassau for today's conference at Mr. Hoover's invitation, to discuss a number of matters, among them his own status after March 4.

Morrow's name has been mentioned with frequency and prominent in connection with the secretaryship of state, yet not even to his intimates has the banker ever indicated that he wanted the position or that he would accept it if it were proffered him.

Those in a position to know say that all reports to the contrary notwithstanding, Mr. Hoover will not offer the post to Morrow and that this is entirely satisfactory to Morrow. They also say that Mr. Hoover is very anxious to retain the ambassador's services in his administration, preferably in his present post. It is believed that Morrow will acquiesce in this program.

SHIP'S CREW IS SAVED BY ANTINOE HERO

Capt. Fried Rescues 32 Seamen Despite 80 Mile An Hour Gale.

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—Victorious in a battle with the hungry waves of the Atlantic for the second time in three years, Captain George Fried of the United States liner America pointed his ship toward New York today after snatching 32 men from a watery grave.

After a 31-hour race through mountainous seas, the famous skipper located the disabled Italian freighter Florida some 700 miles off the Virginia capes, where she had been buffeted by heavy seas since sending out an S. O. S. at noon Tuesday. At 10 o'clock last night, less than three hours after the America sighted the freighter, the Florida's full crew had been transferred safely to comfortable quarters on the giant liner.

RESCUE IN TIME

The America's glorious rescue, which will go down in maritime history as one of the most thrilling epics of the sea, was made just in time. The men aboard the sinking freighter were at the point of collapse. Some were injured. All had practically abandoned hope.

The Florida, listing badly, was abandoned. The giant waves, cheated of their human prey, were lashing the sinking freighter in full fury early today and with a full westerly gale blowing it appeared doubtful whether the Florida could last until a salvage vessel arrives.

The America probably will reach New York late tomorrow or early Saturday.

First news that the men aboard the Florida had been rescued was contained in a radio message received by the United States lines offices here at 10:30 last night from Capt. Fried. It read as follows:

"Rescued full crew Florida. Total, 32. Chief Officer Manning in charge. Whole westerly gale. Lifeboat lost. Proceeding. Details later."

MASTERLY FEAT.

It was just three years ago tomorrow that the doughty little skipper, then commander of the President Roosevelt, wirelessed that he had saved the crew of the British freighter Antinoe, at the cost of the lives of two of his own seamen and five of the President Roosevelt's lifeboats.

Mariners here said today that Chief Officer Manning must have given a masterly exhibition of seamanship in ferrying a lifeboat from the America to the freighter and back. A "whole westerly gale" means the wind must have been blowing about 80 miles an hour.

No fears were felt today for the safety of the American tanker Dannedaike, which sent out an S. O. S. on Tuesday noon one minute after the Florida had called for help about 50 miles away. Capt. Mathiasen of the Dannedaike reported in a message to the ship's owners in Philadelphia that the tanker was proceeding to Bermuda at a reduced speed.

A previous message had stated that the crew of the Dannedaike had rigged up a jury rudder. Her regular steering apparatus was disabled by the storm.

'PANTS GANG' TRIO WILL BE EXECUTED

OSSINING, N. Y., Jan. 24.—Three men are to make the journey through the "little green door" at Sing Sing tonight, and when they do the state prison's death house will be without occupants for the first time in 14 years.

The three condemned men, are Harry Dreitzer, Israel Fischer and Isidore Helfant, all members of the notorious Brooklyn "pants gang," convicted of slaying Patrolman William E. Kelly, during a holdup.

The men were resigned and ready for death today. The electrocutions will take place shortly after midnight.

The "pants gang" earned its sobriquet by stripping their victims of their trousers so that they might not sound an alarm too quickly.

OHIO PASTORS OPPOSED

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 24.—The senate will be asked to postpone action on the cruiser bill, pending the appointment of a non-partisan commission to study "the whole question of national defense," by the Ohio Pastors' convention now in session here.

A resolution to this effect was introduced to the conference this morning. If it is adopted a copy of the resolution will be forwarded to congress. A portion of the resolution read: "We urge upon Congress our high resolve to oppose such increase of armament as is inconsistent with our peaceful professions." The proposed commission would be "of eminent jurists, educators and men of affairs," to be appointed by the president.

PONTIAC, Mich., Jan. 24—John Lasnear, 61, a cripple, and his granddaughter, Thelma, aged 3, were dead today as a result of being trapped in a fire which yesterday destroyed their home and drove three other members of the family into zero cold.

COLUMBUS, Jan. 24—Carelessness in bed, today had claimed the life of another man. Daniel Morgan, 65, was burned to death last night when the mattress of his bed caught fire. Firemen expressed the belief that the man had been smoking in bed, and that a lighted ash had fallen to the mattress and ignited it.

TRIO OF DEAD UNIDENTIFIED

Nameless Graves Yawn For Bodies Mangled In Bus-Traction Crash.

BELLEVUE, O., Jan. 24—Two of the five bodies remaining in Bellevue morgues, following the bus crash Tuesday, were identified today.

One was that of F. A. Kodit, Swartz Creek, Mich., and the other that of William R. Inke, of Bunnell, Fla.

Kodit's identification was made possible by the number on an eyeglass case, found in his pockets.

The bodies of two white men and a negro woman, all unclaimed and unidentified, still lay in undertaking establishments here.

One correction in the list of dead developed last night. A man whose name had been carried as Elmer Almond, 41 S. Forest-ave., Youngstown, was identified as Elmer Alexander, of that address.

Many of the victims were mangled beyond possibility of recognition. One of the unidentified dead is believed to have been a pal of Teddy Brawski, of Brooklyn, who confessed before he died yesterday morning that he had a long record as a gunman and bandit.

Reports that Brawski had a large amount of money on his person could not be verified today. Police refused to comment.

Russell Mack, of Albion, Mich., was still unconscious at Bellevue hospital this morning and his recovery is doubtful. Mrs. Eleanora Houghtby, of Cleevland, was also reported in serious condition but physicians expect her to recover. All the other patients in the hospital here and at Norwalk.

BAN NEW DUNTON BOOK IN BOSTON

The latest book from Circleville's famous scrivener, James Gerald Dunton, has been banned from the book stores and counters of Boston, Mass. Whether it is forbidden as immoral and unmoral as was "Elmer Gantry," Sinclair Lewis's book that caused such a furore a few years back, or whether things moved too swiftly in "A Maid and a Million Men" is yet to be learned.

Meanwhile the sale of the book is increasing rapidly with the announcement of the interdict from the "Watch and Ward" society in the town, where they first started banning things in 1773 at the Boston Tea party.

Husband Will Care For Children; Wife Takes Prison Term

BAY CITY, Mich., Jan. 24.—Mrs. Theressa Efu will serve 191 days in the Saginaw county jail while her husband, Leslie, cares for their three small children, the couple decided today.

Both pleaded guilty before Judge Arthur J. Tuttle in United States district court to violation of the prohibition law. The judge fined one of them one cent and sentenced the other to 191 days in jail, allowing them to decide who should pay each penalty.

It was decided the husband should pay the fine because he could care better for the children.

MORROW TO STAY ENVOY

Reports Say Mexican Ambassador Will Be Asked To Retain Post.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Jan. 24—Dwight W. Morrow's future status in public service, if any, probably will be determined within the next week.

The banker diplomat who left his position as a member of the firm of J. P. Morgan to take over the ambassadorship to Mexico at a time when Washington had almost despaired of ever reestablishing cordial relations with Mexico City, was a breakfast guest this morning of President-elect Hoover, at his Belle Isle retreat. He came from Nassau for today's conference at Mr. Hoover's invitation, to discuss a number of matters, among them his own status after March 4.

Morrow's name has been mentioned with frequency and prominent in connection with the secretaryship of state, yet not even to his intimates has the banker ever indicated that he wanted the position or that he would accept it if it were proffered him.

Those in a position to know say that, all reports to the contrary notwithstanding, Mr. Hoover will not offer the post to Morrow and that this is entirely satisfactory to Morrow. They also say that Mr. Hoover is very anxious to retain the ambassador's services in his administration, preferrably in his present post. It is believed that Morrow will acquiesce in this program.

SHIP'S CREW IS SAVED BY ANTINOE HERO

Capt. Fried Rescues 32 Seamen Despite 80 Mile An Hour Gale.

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—Victorious in a battle with the hungry waves of the Atlantic for the second time in three years, Captain George Fried of the United States liner America pointed his ship toward New York today after snatching 32 men from a watery grave.

After a 31-hour race through mountainous seas, the famous skipper located the disabled Italian freighter Florida some 700 miles off the Virginia capes, where she had been buffeted by heavy seas since sending out an S. O. S. at noon Tuesday. At 10 o'clock last night, less than three hours after the America sighted the freighter, the Florida's full crew had been transferred safely to comfortable quarters on the giant liner.

RESCUE IN TIME

The America's glorious rescue, which will go down in maritime history as one of the most thrilling epics of the sea, was made just in time. The men aboard the sinking freighter were at the point of collapse. Some were injured. All had practically abandoned hope.

The Florida, listing badly, was abandoned. The giant waves, cheated of their human prey, were lashing the sinking freighter in full fury early today and with a full westerly gale blowing it appeared doubtful whether the Florida could last until a salvage vessel arrives.

The America probably will reach New York late tomorrow or early Saturday.

First news that the men aboard the Florida had been rescued was contained in a radio message received by the United States lines offices here at 10:30 last night from Capt. Fried. It read as follows:

"Rescued full crew Florida. Total, 32. Chief Officer Manning in charge. Whole westerly gale. Lifeboat lost. Proceeding. Details later."

MASTERLY FEAT.

It was just three years ago tomorrow that the doughty little skipper, then commander of the President Roosevelt, wirelessed that he had saved the crew of the British freighter Antinoe, at the cost of the lives of two of his own seamen and five of the President Roosevelt's lifeboats.

Mariners here said today that Chief Officer Manning must have given a masterly exhibition of seamanship in ferrying a lifeboat from the America to the freighter and back. A "whole westerly gale" means the wind must have been blowing about 80 miles an hour.

No fears were felt today for the safety of the American tanker Dannedaike, which sent out an S. O. S. on Tuesday noon one minute after the Florida had called for help about 50 miles away. Capt. Mathiasen of the Dannedaike reported in a message to the ship's owners in Philadelphia that the tanker was proceeding to Bermuda at a reduced speed.

A previous message had stated that the crew of the Dannedaike had rigged up a jury rudder. Her regular steering apparatus was disabled by the storm.

'PANTS GANG' TRIO WILL BE EXECUTED

OSSINING, N. Y., Jan. 24.—Three men are to make the journey through the "little green door" at Sing Sing tonight, and when they do the state prison's death house will be without occupants for the first time in 14 years.

The three condemned men, are Harry Dreitzer, Israel Fischer and Isidore Helfant, all members of the notorious Brooklyn "pants gang," convicted of slaying Patrolman William E. Kelly, during a holdup.

The men were resigned and ready for death today. The electrocutions will take place shortly after midnight.

The "pants gang" earned its sobriquet by stripping their victims of their trousers so that they might not sound an alarm too quickly.

Hoyt's Only Relief After 15 Years Of Suffering

Chillicothe Man Was a Nervous Wreck When He Started Hoyt Treatment; Now Feels Like a New Man.

"I was a NERVOUS WRECK when I started taking the Hoyt's Compound," said Mr. Charles Vincient, who has been a resident of Chillicothe for the past 28 years and has countless friends and acquaintances in this vicinity. They are at Wilder's Drug Store, Circleville, O., daily, receiving letter after letter of praise from people who never received any benefits from OTHER MEDICINES and who say that Hoyt has given them COMPETENT and PERMANENT relief after YEARS OF SUFFERING. Mr. Vincient's own TRUTHFUL statement follows:

MR. CHARLES VINCIENT

"Have been a resident of Chillicothe for 28 years, the last FIFTEEN YEARS being spent in almost constant MISERY and SUFFERING. Have been a sufferer of stomach trouble for some time. Gas would form after meals and there were times when I would SWELL until I would suffer HORRIBLY. I was a NERVOUS WRECK and these troubles along with my deranged kidneys and bladder trouble made it impossible for me to go any place and enjoy myself like other people. I tried nearly every kind of medicine without any help and lost all faith in medicines when I began to read about Hoyt's Compound and what it was doing for others here in this State and other cities EVERYWHERE. Finally I decided to try Hoyt's and I want to say right now that it was the wisest decision I ever made. I have taken a little over TWO BOTTLES of Hoyt's and I can TRUTHFULLY say that I feel better now than I have felt in over FIFTEEN YEARS. That terrible stomach trouble is a thing of the past and my kidneys and bladder are greatly improved. I can now work with a pleasure because I rest well at night and I have a good appetite which are two things that are vital in a person's life. Hoyt's Compound is BY FAR SUPERIOR to any medicine ever introduced in this State during my 28 years here. If any one doubts the above statement they may call on me at any time and I will verify it."

Hoyt's Compound is being introduced and explained daily at Wilder's Drug Store, Circleville, O.

Is Old Superstition

Just when the groundhog idea started is not known, but the superstition that the weather on Candlemas day is an indication of the weather for the rest of the winter is old. It has prevailed in Europe for centuries. The Germans still have a saying that "the shepherd would rather see a wolf in his stable on Christmas day than the sun."

BEWARE THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

Something sensible. "Better to light a Lucky whenever you crave fattening sweets." It brings to men the health and vigor that come with avoiding overweight. To women it offers a slender, fashionable figure.

20,679 physicians have stated that Lucky Strike is less irritating to the throat than other cigarettes. Very likely this is due to toasting which removes impurities. This same process, toasting, improves and develops the flavor of the world's finest tobaccos. This means that there is a flavor in Luckies which is a delightful alternative for the things that make you fat. That's why "It's Toasted" is your assurance that there's real health in Luckies—they're good for you!

Keep fit—reach for a Lucky instead of a fattening sweet. That's what many men have been doing for years. They know the evidence of prominent athletes whose favorite cigarette is Lucky Strike and who say Luckies steady their nerves and do not impair their physical condition.

A reasonable proportion of sugar in the diet is recommended, but the authorities are overwhelming that too many fattening sweets are harmful and that too many such are eaten by the American people. So, for moderation's sake we say:—

"REACH FOR A LUCKY INSTEAD OF A SWEET."

Is Old Superstition

Just when the groundhog idea started is not known, but the superstition that the weather on Candlemas day is an indication of the weather for the rest of the winter is old. It has prevailed in Europe for centuries. The Germans still have a saying that "the shepherd would rather see a wolf in his stable on Christmas day than the sun."

Missing Boy Found?

All indications point to recovery alive of Billy Gaffney (above), Brooklyn, N. Y., boy missing since Feb. 11, 1927, on ranch near Newell, S. D., where he was found wandering more than a year and a half ago. The case of Billy is one of the most famous in history or New York's Missing Persons' Bureau.

Weak Humanity

We are accustomed to see men deride what they do not understand and snarl at the good and beautiful because it lies beyond their sympathies.—Goethe.

The Explanation

"I've known several old maids," writes a correspondent, "but not one was a good cook. Why?" The obvious explanation is that good cooks are seldom old maids.

BEWARE THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

For Colds—

How many people you know end their colds with Bayer Aspirin! And how often you've heard of its prompt relief of sore throat or tonsilitis. No wonder millions take it for colds, neuralgia, rheumatism; and the aches and pains that go with them. The wonder is that anyone still worries through a winter without these tablets! They relieve quickly, yet have no effect whatever on the heart. Friends have told you Bayer Aspirin is marvelous; doctors have declared it harmless. Every druggist has it, with proven directions. Why not put it to the test?

"I light a Lucky and go light on the sweets

That's how I keep in good shape and always feel peppy."

Al Jolson
Famous comedian and star of song.

Reach for a Lucky instead of a sweet.

Al Jolson as he appears in Warner Bros. Vitaphone success, "The Singing Fool."

Something sensible. "Better to light a Lucky whenever you crave fattening sweets." It brings to men the health and vigor that come with avoiding overweight. To women it offers a slender, fashionable figure.

20,679 physicians have stated that Lucky Strike is less irritating to the throat than other cigarettes. Very likely this is due to toasting which removes impurities. This same process, toasting, improves and develops the flavor of the world's finest tobaccos. This means that there is a flavor in Luckies which is a delightful alternative for the things that make you fat. That's why "It's Toasted" is your assurance that there's real health in Luckies—they're good for you!

Keep fit—reach for a Lucky instead of a fattening sweet. That's what many men have been doing for years. They know the evidence of prominent athletes whose favorite cigarette is Lucky Strike and who say Luckies steady their nerves and do not impair their physical condition.

A reasonable proportion of sugar in the diet is recommended, but the authorities are overwhelming that too many fattening sweets are harmful and that too many such are eaten by the American people. So, for moderation's sake we say:—

"REACH FOR A LUCKY INSTEAD OF A SWEET."

"It's toasted"

No Throat Irritation—No Cough.

Don't Neglect Minor Ailments

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

DR. COPELAND.

THERE is an old saying, frequently quoted nowadays: "Take care of the pennies and the dollars will take care of themselves." That is the admonition of prudence.

I shall not attempt to discuss the social or economic significance of thrift. Personally, I believe in it. But I do wish to impress upon you, if I am able, the importance of taking care of the trifling ailments, the little illnesses, the commonly overlooked defects of the body.

Serious disease is almost always the result of neglect. I do not refer to immediate, recent, occasional neglect. I have in mind the long continued failure to give attention to some minor trouble.

We don't know much about cancer, certainly as regards its cause. But it is perfectly safe to say that a person in perfect health will not be set upon by this dread disease. Lowered resistance must be present, or else cancer would not find its way into the body.

Perfect health may be compared to a powerful money vault. When the modern safe is closed and locked, it will protect its valuables against fire, the petty thief, the common burglar, and even the expert safe cracker.

The strength of the vault may be compared to the resistance of the body. It guards against all enemies.

When I was a boy the safe in my father's office was attacked by burglars. They were bungling and made little progress except to break the combination lock. They left it so nobody could open the vault by the ordinary method.

An expert from the factory was called upon to open the door. The first thing he did was to drill a small hole through the steel, above the lock. In course of time this was through the plate and permitted tiny tools to be admitted for manipulation of the machinery. It was not long then before the door was open.

Some of the "minor diseases" drill holes into the body, if I may use that figure. Through these openings the more important diseases find their way. They take firm hold on the tissues. After a time the victim finds himself in the clutches of a serious ailment.

Abuse of the stomach is the common pastime of the human family. Who knows what the undernourishment following prolonged dyspepsia may have to do in the development of cancer?

There is no doubt that the neglect of common things, like bad teeth, disease of the mouth or tonsils, running ear and even pus-filled skin eruptions, may prepare the way for some really serious infection. The ordinary illnesses, the common ailments of everyday life, have an important bearing on the general state of health.

Chronic constipation, repeated colds, intestinal worms—all these bear a relationship to serious disease. We must not neglect them.

If you take care of the simple diseases, the big ones will take care of themselves. You will be putting money in the bank of health by acting on this suggestion.

"FIRST AND ONLY RELIEF I FOUND IN NEW KONJOLA"

Kidney and Liver Troubles of Long Standing Disappear Before Amazing Powers of Modern Medicine.

MR. JAY L. BICKLEY.

As the fame of Konjola, the new medicine, spreads, day after day come endorsements from men and women made happy by it. In the case of Mr. Jay L. Bickley, 568 Harbor street, Conneaut, Ohio, who recently said:

"The first and only relief I ever found for my stomach and liver troubles I found in Konjola. I tried for months to shake off indigestion and liver disorder. Nothing I tried touched the spot. I could not get even temporary relief. All that I ate caused gas, pains, bloating and shortness of breath. I lacked energy and lost strength constantly.

"I read and heard so much about this new Konjola that I decided to see if it would do me any good. Imagine my surprise and delight when I noticed improvement right away. A full treatment, six bottles, erased all of my pains and symptoms. Today I can eat what I like. My liver has been cleansed and stimulated. I am sure that if all who are ill as I was knew of Konjola there would be far less suffering in this world."

Konjola is sold in Circleville, O., at the Mykrantz Pharmacy, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section. Adv.

STOP THE FAT AND GET THIN

The way to reduction is to stop the formation of fat. Modern science has found that way—by turning your food into fuel and energy—by supplying a natural element that helps do that. It is much better than starvation. That modern, scientific method is embodied in Marmola prescription tablets. People have used them for 20 years—millions of boxes of them. Now the results in slender figures, new beauty and vitality, are seen everywhere.

Each box of Marmola contains the formula, also the scientific reasons for results. So you know the effects are beneficial, and why they all occur. Learn what so many have learned in 20 years about it. Do it now. Ask your druggist for a $1 box of Marmola and learn what it means to you.

Highlighting Your Son's Room

"NO, Richard, you can not have a red rug. Red is no color for a rug." So said the large and firm lady to her little son. "But it's my room," he wailed. There was no reply to that observation. His mother continued to buy the rug she thought suitable. The incident was closed.

Of course, most people will grant that red is, ordinarily, no color for a rug; but on the other hand, childish love of bright, not to say gaudy, colors is a phase of importance while it lasts but which will soon be outgrown.

Do What You Both Want

So why not do as one wise mother did—indulge this love, but use the startling hues on articles which can easily be changed. For instance, make the background of walls and floor a subdued color, with color concentrated in the sturdy curtains and a few pieces of furniture. For instance, if red is the color for which the childish heart yearns, you might take a tip from the Navajos and combine grey, black, white and red. Walls of a silver grey, woodwork painted slightly darker and floors still darker would form a good background. At the windows and on the bed have curtains of futuristic red and white prints. The larger part of the furniture might be either grey or black—but by all means paint a number of pieces a brilliant red which will satisfy the most color-hungry little boy in the world. Navajo rugs on the floor will complete the furnishings of this charming room.

By the time red is no longer such a lure you will feel that you can easily give the furniture another coat of enamel, and by changing the drapes you can alter the character of the room to suit the boy's developing artistic standards.

Miss Mary Folden entertained a party of school mates for her 13th birthday anniversary. Games contests, violin and piano music was enjoyed throughout the evening. APPLAUDED BY FARMERS

Br'or Dahlberg, who rose to prominence in the American sugar business after many years of struggle as a poor orphan boy in Minnesota, has been given a place in the agricultural hall of fame by readers of Farm and Fireside, national farm magazine.

Dahlberg, as a boy, ran an elevator in the Northern Pacific offices at St. Paul. At 30, he made a fortune buying up claims against railroads for illegally high freight rates, and cashing in on them after the courts had decided against the roads. Then he used his capital in devising a fibre board which could be made from the waste product of sugar cane.

His great contribution to agriculture followed in 1924, when the sugar business appeared to be ruined by a disease which stunted and choked the crop. Dahlberg imported new seed from the west of Java, which resisted the disease and brought a new and more profitable era to the Louisiana sugar planters. Production became so enormous that he organized the Southern Sugar Company as a general outlet.

Dahlberg has now turned to Florida, where he has purchased 40,000 acres of Everglades swamp. This waste land, he believes, will prove the finest sugar land in the country.

SHOW AWARDS TO SPUD GROWERS

Classes Open To All Farmers In Annual State Exhibit of Ohio Potatoes.

In one class or another, there is opportunity for every grower of potatoes in Ohio to enter the annual Ohio State Potato show which is to be held at the Ohio State university Feb. 4 to 8, 1929, in connection with the annual Farmers' Week.

Seven classes have been arranged, and will include among them any grower in the state. The first, and most open class, is for "producers of table stock potatoes." Members of the 400-Bushel Potato club of Ohio, who have produced 400 bushels or more of potatoes to the acre, have a class to themselves. Growers of Ohio certified seed potatoes have another division of the show, and there is still another division for the growers who planted Ohio certified seed potatoes. One class is for growers using a named brand of certified seed.

Boy and girls members of 4-H club potato clubs are eligible to compete in another class of their own. Many of the exhibits for this class are already in storage at the horticultural building of the university, having been forwarded immediately after they were shown at various county fairs or at the Ohio State Fair.

Then there is a class for the single tubers which have been selected to represent the entire crop of the grower. Large prizes are offered in each class. A sweepstakes offering is a four-row sprayer valued at $280.

Morpheus and Somnus

Morpheus, the ancient Greek god of dreams, was early pictured as an old man with wings. He held in his hands a vial or horn from which issued the sleep producing vapor. Morpheus was the son of Somnus the god of sleep. The name Morpheus is derived from a Greek word which means to shape or form, and the name was given to the god of dreams because of the shapes or forms which he calls up before the dreamer. The word morphine, the name of a sleep-producing drug, comes from Morpheus.

Kiddies' Evening Story

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

FOUR O'CLOCK

One, two, three, four struck the clock. But the fourth strike had not been sounded before the door bell rang and little Elaine shouted: "Here they come! Here they come!"

It was at four o'clock that she was expecting her friends to come and see her.

They were going to play "house" and they were going to play "Hunt the thimble," and they were going to play "Still-pond-no-more-moving," and they were going to have a lovely big tea.

Just as she was opening the door to let in her friends Orrie and Anna who had brought their dolls along too, up the front path came the other friends who had been invited—Betty and Jane.

"I'm so glad you've all come," cried Elaine delightedly. And all her friends were glad to receive such a fine welcome.

"We're all so glad we've come, too," they said.

They took off their things then and went into the library of Elaine's daddy where they began to play.

They each chose one of the great big chairs in the room for a house and each went behind the chair with their dolls which they had brought.

Back of the big red leather chair Orrie had her two dolls and worsted cat.

Back of the big brown leather chair Anna had her two beloved dolls Viva and Charles—such good and handsome doll children.

Back of the red leather chair which was not quite so large as the chair where Orrie had her

"Good Afternoon," Said Jane.

"house," Elaine had her toys, and back of another slightly smaller brown leather chair Jane had her toys.

One would decide that she would be at home and then the others would come and call on her.

"Good afternoon," said Jane to Orrie. They had decided that Orrie would be the hostess for the time being.

"Good afternoon," said Orrie.

"Good afternoon," said Betty.

"Good afternoon," said Anna.

"Good, afternoon," said the dolls and the worsted cat in their make-believe voices.

They had a most wonderful time playing house.

Not only did they call on each other and talk about what their children were doing, and how they were getting along in their lessons, but they kept arranging and rearranging their "houses."

Then they had a surprise for each other at every call.

For example, Anna would call on Orrie and she would say:

"Dear me, so you've moved the chair. What an improvement, my dear, what a great improvement.

"It makes the room look larger. And somehow it makes the room look brighter."

Then Orrie would say:

"Just what I thought, my dear, and I am so glad that you agree with me."

They had supper later on and then the ones who had to go home packed up their things and left, but it had been a lovely little party and every one enjoyed it.

Even the worsted cat had had a good time, so you may know it was as very lovely party.

No Biscuits

A man who is fond of biscuits for breakfast had difficulty in arousing his wife in time to get the coveted food.

One morning recently after a number of calls, the man became impatient and his wife said: "Don't be so cross. I am just dead."

"Well, I'll call the undertaker then and let the biscuits go this time," replied the disappointed husband.

Reason for Alarm

A friend's little boy, aged only four, was serving as ring bearer at a large and elaborate wedding. The ring had been fastened to the satin pillow by a loose stitch and the little fellow had been warned by his mother to be careful with it.

Consequently, when the minister removed the ring, little Wilfred cried out, "Oh, muvver, the man is taking the ring!"

Who George Was

George and Roger Brown, respectively five and two, often have their names mentioned together. Therefore, when the new neighbor inquired who he was, it was natural that George should think of his brother. He replied: "I am the Brown children."

Indian "Message Sticks"

A message stick was used by the early Indians as a means of communication. It was, literally, a stick which bore feathers or upon which notches were cut. It was sent by runners.

CHAPTER LVI.

STEVE HARRISON, Ann knew, even if she nestled in his arms, was not the man to command her life. How odd life was! She was just beginning to understand that she had no heart to give—that her heart must be stormed and captured and taken. Women were not independent and cool-headed, giving their love where they decided—down through the ages they had been creatures of conquest—had surrendered with a great cosmic certainty, to strength.

She made a move to disengage herself from his embrace and he let her go. His arms might have held her, had he so desired, but the will power and vigor of his desire were too weak. He had had his chance and he was afraid of it.

"Sometime, m a y b e you'll change," he said. "I'll wait as long as you like."

"What's the use of waiting for anything," she responded.

"I'm that way—I can wait."

"I'm afraid it's no use."

"Is it because of—of Jerry Dunn?"

Ann was silent. While she might discuss Steve with Jerry she could not discuss Jerry with Steve. There was a difference And, at the present, she could hardly bear to think of love with another man when she was so fresh from the arms of Steve Harrison A humiliation burned like acid in her blood—that she could so cheapen herself by surrendering up the shell of herself to the embrace of a man whose power resided in her own obscured desires and not in his authority over her.

"What do you want me to do?" he asked helplessly.

"If you haven't spent your money, I want you to buy back your truck and continue on as you did before."

"You'll give me my chance again?"

"Oh, let's don't talk about it any more," Ann said with a flash of irritation. "I thought about you and talked it over with you until I'm worn out with it, Steve. I'll get you out of my mind presently and we'll simply swear off."

"But I can see you sometimes—you'll let me walk home with you?"

"Yes, yes," she said hastily. "But why don't you go back to Maizie? If you saw more of her you'd think less about me and probably have a whole lot more love."

"Maizie can't see me anymore," Steve said.

"She's crazy about you."

"No she ain't. I was so restless after I left you last night that I went to her house and she wasn't even glad to see me. We talked for awhile and she's all for that fellow Dunn. I think she fell in love with him."

"What nonsense!" Ann said sharply.

"I can't help it—it's true," Steve insisted. "He's going to take her out of the factory and pay her bills at a boarding school. It looks like he's trying to make a lady out of her the same as you tried to make a gentleman out of me. He's sending her away next week—and I don't give a damn."

Abruptly, Ann felt a stinging hurt. She had no just grounds to criticize either Jerry or Maizie in the matter but, in an indefinable way she felt that Jerry had deceived her. If he had contemplated the elevation of Maizie he should have told her. She would have told him everything about Steve if he had only let her talk that night in his room, but he himself had been too busy talking about Maizie to give ear to the problems that were racking her nerves.

"Did Maizie tell you she was in love with Jerry?" she demanded swiftly of Steve.

"She didn't say that exactly."

"Did she say HE was in love with her?"

"She said he was awfully good to her and was sending her off to school. I guess that only means one thing. Why should he give her an education unless it was because he wanted to introduce her as as his wife among his swell friends?"

The idea sickened Ann. "Well, it's no affair of mine. We've had our little talk, Steve, and I think we're both better off. We can still be friends, can't we?"

She extended her hand and he clasped it briefly in his huge paw. "You saved me from making an awful fool out of myself," he said humbly. "I'm going to try to do everything you say, but I can't promise to quit loving you."

"You'll get over it," she told him with a smile as she opened the door and let him go.

When he was gone the buoyancy drained out of her heart and she sat down at Pagalo's desk and buried her face in her arms. What was it all about? And why this now, alarming ache in her heart? Involuntarily, words came to her lips from out of her subconsciousness.

"That girl!" It was no good telling herself that Jerry's business was his own; that he was free to do as he pleased. Even so, it hurt. What kind of a fool was she making of herelf? Her sense of the ridiculous told her that it was perfectly silly for her to be wrought up over Jerry's action when, just a little while before, she had been tremendously agitated by Steve. What was going on in her soul? Self-respect demanded that she deny an inner accusation that she merged upon a promiscuity of affection. No, that was not the truth. All of this, she tried to believe, was a ferment of emotion, an upheaval of feeling that would presently subside and leave her clearer, more collected.

"I've been seeing too much of men—too intimately," she told herself. "Living under the same roof with them and with no restraints has begun to break down my resistance. Maybe the old-fashioned conventions are right, after all. When you see too much of men and get too close to them you just get to be plain downright simple. You've got to keep them at their distance if you want to come out safe."

And then, immediately after her well-intentioned philosophy she knew that she was alive with eagerness to see Jerry and reproach him—ever so subtly—for his strange alliance with Maizie Thompson. If his feeling for her should be transferred to another girl Ann felt that scarcely anything worth while would be left in life.

While she was realizing this she was, simultaneously calling herself a fool.

McAVOY AND NAGEL

May McAvoy and Conrad Nagel are starred at the Grand theater tonight in "Caught in the Fog." The picture is a rollicking comedy of love on a houseboat. An F. B. O. comedy and a Fox News reel will also be shown.

NEW ENTERTAINMENT

"Spies," the enthusiastically heralded UFA mystery play which comes Friday to the Met theater, introduces to American audiences a new entertainment which has of late taken the Continent by storm.

This is the practice of staging prize-fights between dances in the smart cafes of Berlin, Leipzig and leading European cities. Attempted as a novelty by the ingenious proprietor of a cabaret in the German capital, the idea spread like wildfire and has attracted a wide vogue, although as yet America doesn't seem to have caught on.

"Spies" was directed for UFA by Fritz Lang, who made the memorable "Metropolis." The new film, which is released in this country by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, has a notable Continental cast and is said to employ some of the most unusual and fantastic backgrounds ever seen in a photoplay. The story deals with a mysterious secret character who attempts to amass a fortune by controlling the political destinies of nations.

OFFICE BOYS

The people living in Circleville will have the opportunity of seeing in person, two famous Radio Stars and at the same time the world's foremost harmony team on the air today. Better known as the Office Boys, who have been broadcasting from the principal radio stations.

The Happy Go-Lucky Harmony Kings, the nickname of the Office Boys, now broadcasting from WLW radio station, will appear in person at the Cliftona theater on Thursday and Friday.

Not Asking

Ellen often visits the childless lady next door, who has a conspicuous candy jar on her buffet. The child had been permitted to call on the neighbor, with a promise that she would not ask for candy. After a time the little miss spied the tempting jar, brimming full, and said: "You have a pretty full jar of candy. I can't ask for any today, but I will eat all you give me."

Tricky Memory

The habit of forgetfulness causes a heap of unnecessary labor. I once knew a man back East who could seldom remember whether or not he had locked his store when he went home, and, of course, he had to trudge back and try the door, and half the time he could not remember whether he had gone back to try the door tonight or last night. Not much sense in permitting a memory to act so.—Portland Oregonian.

Cracked Ice Best

Experiments seem to prove that cracked ice cools a refrigerator more rapidly than a block of ice does. It has been shown to give 16 per cent lower temperature with only 33 per cent lower meltage than block ice.

A Whole Meal in One Swallow!

WE ALL know the value of vegetables, and the reader may know just which vegetables are best for the inner system. But it's another thing to eat them in sufficient quantities! Why not get the benefit of their goodness in the pleasant form of syrup pepsin?

There is as much good in a spoon of syrup pepsin as one would get from a basketful of vegetables. Those who have learned this secret of health don't have to pamper their stomachs, or whip-up their bowels with a lot of strong medicines. They seldom, if ever, have liver trouble and can usually eat anything.

So, don't give up rich foods. Don't go on a dull vegetable "diet." Just take a spoonful of syrup pepsin now and then—and forget everything else but your appetite at the table! If you have never made the syrup pepsin test, ten days may do surprising things for you—no matter how "fit" you may feel now. Children are helped wonderfully by this same skillful combination of laxative herbs and pure pepsin. Older people ward off auto-intoxication the same way. It is more than fifty years since Dr. Caldwell gave the world this prescription, yet today there is no druggist who hasn't it all put up and ready for you with directions.

APPLAUDED BY FARMERS

Br'or Dahlberg, who rose to prominence in the American sugar business after many years of struggle as a poor orphan boy in Minnesota, has been given a place in the agricultural hall of fame by readers of Farm and Fireside, national farm magazine.

Dahlberg, as a boy, ran an elevator in the Northern Pacific offices at St. Paul. At 30, he made a fortune buying up claims against railroads for illegally high freight rates, and cashing in on them after the courts had decided against the roads. Then he used his capital in devising a fibre board which could be made from the waste product of sugar cane.

His great contribution to agriculture followed in 1924, when the sugar business appeared to be ruined by a disease which stunted and choked the crop. Dahlberg imported new seed from the west of Java, which resisted the disease and brought a new and more profitable era to the Louisiana sugar planters. Production became so enormous that he organized the Southern Sugar Company as a general outlet.

Dahlberg has now turned to Florida, where he has purchased 40,000 acres of Everglades swamp. This waste land, he believes, will prove the finest sugar land in the country.

SHOW AWARDS TO SPUD GROWERS

Classes Open To All Farmers In Annual State Exhibit of Ohio Potatoes.

In one class or another, there is opportunity for every grower of potatoes in Ohio to enter the annual Ohio State Potato show which is to be held at the Ohio State university Feb. 4 to 8, 1929, in connection with the annual Farmers' Week.

Seven classes have been arranged, and will include among them any grower in the state. The first, and most open class, is for "producers of table stock potatoes." Members of the 400-Bushel Potato club of Ohio, who have produced 400 bushels or more of potatoes to the acre, have a class to themselves. Growers of Ohio certified seed potatoes have another division of the show, and there is still another division for the growers who planted Ohio certified seed potatoes. One class is for growers using a named brand of certified seed.

Boy and girls members of 4-H club potato clubs are eligible to compete in another class of their own. Many of the exhibits for this class are already in storage at the horticultural building of the university, having been forwarded immediately after they were shown at various county fairs or at the Ohio State Fair.

Then there is a class for the single tubers which have been selected to represent the entire crop of the grower. Liberal prizes are offered in cash [illegible]. A sweepstakes offers [illegible] grand sweepstakes [illegible]

Kiddies' Evening Story

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

FOUR O'CLOCK

One, two, three, four struck the clock. But the fourth strike had not been sounded before the door bell rang and little Elaine shouted: "Here they come! Here they come!"

It was at four o'clock that she was expecting her friends to come and see her.

They were going to play "house" and they were going to play "Hunt the thimble," and they were going to play "Still-pond-no more-moving," and they were going to have a lovely big tea.

Just as she was opening the door to let in her friends Orrie and Anna who had brought their dolls along too, up the front path came the other friends who had been invited—Betty and Jane.

"I'm so glad you've all come," cried Elaine delightedly. And all her friends were glad to receive such a fine welcome.

"We're all so glad we've come, too," they said.

They took off their things then and went into the library of Elaine's daddy where they began to play.

They each chose one of the great big chairs in the room for a house and each went behind the chair with their dolls which they had brought.

Back of the big red leather chair Orrie had her two dolls and worsted cat.

Back of the big brown leather chair Anna had her two beloved dolls Viva and Charles—such good and handsome doll children.

Back of the red leather chair which was not quite so large as the chair where Orrie had her

"Good Afternoon," Said Jane.

"house," Elaine had her toys, and back of another slightly smaller brown leather chair Jane had her toys.

One would decide that she would be at home and then the others would come and call on her.

"Good afternoon," said Jane to Orrie. They had decided that Orrie would be the hostess for the time being.

"Good afternoon," said Orrie.

"Good afternoon," said Betty.

"Good afternoon," said Anna.

"Good afternoon," said the dolls and the worsted cat in their make-believe voices.

They had a most wonderful time playing house.

Not only did they call on each other and talk about what their children were doing, and how they were getting along in their lessons, but they kept arranging and rearranging their "houses."

Then they had a surprise for each other at every call.

For example, Anna would call on Orrie and she would say:

"Dear me, so you've moved the chair. What an improvement, my dear, what a great improvement.

"It makes the room look larger. And somehow it makes the room look brighter."

Then Orrie would say:

"Just what I thought, my dear, and I am so glad that you agree with me."

They had supper later on and then the ones who had to go home packed up their things and left, but it had been a lovely little party and every one enjoyed it.

Even the worsted cat had had a good time, so you may know it was as very lovely party.

No Biscuits

A man who is fond of biscuits for breakfast had difficulty in arousing his wife on time to get the coveted food.

One morning recently after a number of calls, the man became agitated and his wife said: "Don't be so cross. I am just dead."

"Well, I will the undertaker then and tell him biscuits go this day," replied the disappointed husband.

Those who have learned this secret of health don't have to pamper their stomachs, or whip-up their bowels with a lot of strong medicines. They seldom, if ever, have liver trouble and can usually eat anything.

So, don't give up rich foods. Don't go on a dull vegetable "diet." Just take a spoonful of syrup pepsin now and then—and forget everything else but your appetite at the table! If you have never made the syrup pepsin test, ten days may do surprising things for you—no matter how "fit" you may feel now. Children are helped wonderfully by this same skillful combination of laxative herbs and pure pepsin. Older people ward off auto-intoxication the same way. It is more than fifty years since Dr. Caldwell gave the world this prescription, yet today there is no druggist who hasn't it all put up and ready for you with directions.

STOP THE FAT AND GET THIN

The way to reduction is to stop the formation of fat. Modern science has found that way—by turning your food into fuel and energy—by supplying a natural element that helps do that. It is much better than starvation. That modern, scientific method is embodied in Marmola prescription tablets. People have used them for 20 years—millions of boxes of them. Now the results in slender figures, new beauty and vitality, are seen everywhere.

Each box of Marmola contains the formula, also the scientific reasons for results. So you know the effects are beneficial, and why they all occur. Learn what so many have learned in 20 years about it. Do it now. Ask your druggist for a $1 box of Marmola and learn what it means to you.

Highlighting Your Son's Room

"NO, Richard, you can not have a red rug. Red is no color for a rug." So said the large and firm lady to her little son. "But it's my room," he wailed. There was no reply to that observation. His mother continued to buy the rug she thought suitable. The incident was closed.

Of course, most people will grant that red is, ordinarily, no color for a rug; but on the other hand, childish love of bright, not to say gaudy, colors is a phase of importance while it lasts but which will soon be outgrown.

Do What You Both Want

So why not do as one wise mother did—indulge this love, but use the startling hues on articles which can easily be changed. For instance, make the background of walls and floor a subdued color, with color concentrated in the sturdy curtains and a few pieces of furniture. For instance, if red is the color for which the childish heart yearns, you might take a tip from the Navajos and combine grey, black, white and red. Walls of a silver grey, woodwork painted slightly darker and floors still darker would form a good background. At the windows and on the bed have curtains of futuristic red and white prints. The larger part of the furniture might be either grey or black—but by all means paint a number of pieces a brilliant red which will satisfy the most color-hungry little boy in the world. Navajo rugs on the floor will complete the furnishings of this charming room.

By the time red is no longer such a lure you will feel that you can easily give the furniture another coat of enamel, and by changing the drapes you can alter the character of the room to suit the boy's developing artistic standards.

"Smilin Through" Charms Audience Of Lecture Course

Splendid lighting effects and a realistic garden scene made a professional setting for the drama, "Smilin' Through" that was offered Wednesday night at Memorial Hall by the Circleville Lecture Course. A good audience enjoyed the three acts of this emotional fantasy, and the performance of five charming young actors.

Bob Hanscom, character actor, in the role of young John Carteret, and also as he fifty years later was particular genuine. The scene of the wedding night and its tragedy was especially well done. Here the comedy of Francis Daré, as the agitated best man was exceedingly true to life. Fifty years later too, as Carteret's best friend still, he added to the humor and pathos of the friendship of these two old cronies, who were so stubborn as well as loveable.

The heroine was played by Miss Frances Boreland. She took the part of both Kathleen Dungannon and of Moonyear Clare fifty years later.

The rejected lover, Eugene Thomas was realistic, as he frantically endeavored to win the girl he loved from another, on her wedding night. The shooting of Kathleen, when he meant to kill her intended husband, was the expected climax to such an emotional scene.

Elsie Hanscomb, was the maid, in the household at the time of the shooting as well as half a century later.

The story began with the two suitors for the hand of Kathleen, and John Carteret winning. He never marries, but carries the memory of his loved one, and the hatred for Jeremiah always in his heart. The latter marries, and it is his son, Kenneth, who falls in love with John's neice, Kathleen, who returns his love. John Carteret forbids her to even see her lover, and his hatred nearly causes a second tragedy, which is finally averted with the help of his old friend, Harding.

Young Wayne goes to war, after saying goodby to Kathleen who is broaken hearted at the parting which is marred by her uncles attitude. Her emotion and sadness cause many tears in the audience for it was so sweet.

However the war is ended with the Germans and Kenneth Wayne returns, ill but on the road to recovery, to the war that is still raging at home. Everything ends happily, and the last scene is that of old Uncle John submitting to his mistakes, and of the fantasy of seeing his Kathleen, as she looked on her wedding night. She is glad that he has decided correctly, and welcomes him to her land, where once more they can be together.

Through the entire three acts, drifts the melody,

There's a little green gate,
At whose trellis I wait,
While two eyes of blue,
Come smilin' through, at me.

After this impressive ceremony Mrs. Merle Reichelderfer read the interesting history of the chapter during the past 30 years. As the chief speaker of the evening, the Rev. Franklin McElfresh of the Methodist church, spoke on "Women of the Bible."

Another feature of the program was the singing of Mrs. R. S. Hosler of Ashville, who was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. George Bentley.

Joined Voodoo Cult

Disappearances in Paris

The great number of mysterious disappearances which take place in Paris every year is being discussed by one of the city's papers. It appears from the police records that on an average no fewer than 500 people disappear yearly in Paris without leaving any trace behind. And it must be added that in the majority of cases they have no connection with murder or crime, or any other known reason. They just vanish from the city and, so far as is known, from the earth altogether.

Ancient Wood Sculpture

One of the earliest specimens of wood sculpture extant is in the Cairo museum. With the exception of the arms, it is carved out of a solid block of sycamore wood. It is a life-size portrait statue, a double of the Sheikel-Beled. The figure dates back to about 4000 B. C.

Sugar Cane Data

The initials P. O. J. stand for Proefstation Oost Java, the earlier name of the planters' experiment station at Pasoeroean Java. All sugar cane seedlings developed by this station are designated by those initials. The Department of Agriculture has obtained cuttings of practically all of these seedlings which from their parentage, disease resistance and general characteristics appear to have commercial possibilities for Louisiana.

TIGER TEAMS SET FOR FRAY

Boys Will Meet Washington and Girls To Play Lancaster Friday.

Friday night, the Circleville Tiger boys will battle Washington C. H. boys, while the girls play Lancaster girls. These games will be undoubtedly two of the best to be seen this year.

The Lancaster girls have an exceptionally fast team which the Tiger girls claim is the best team they ever played. Last Friday night the Circleville girls met defeat at their hands by a score of 13-10. So this week the girls are very determined to get Tiger revenge.

Washington C. H. always turns out a fast basketball team, so the boys will have quite a job on hand to dispose of them. But the Tigers, having lost their two starts in the league, are determined to win.

Miss Rains states that the girls have been practicing harder than ever this week to defeat Lancaster. Mr. Guthrie says the boys have a fine chance of winning over Washington C. H.

CHEVROLET FUTURE SEEN AS BRIGHTEST

"Never in the history of Chevrolet has the outlook been better. The remarkable new six cylinder valve-in-head car with its added power, acceleration, speed, smoothness and riding comfort offered in the price range of the four should enable both factory and dealer organizations to shatter all former records by a wide margin. The tentative production program of 1,250,000 units for 1929 will fall far short of the public demand for the car. This will be another Chevrolet year!"

This was the opinion of 700 Chevrolet dealers and bankers who gathered at the Emery Auditorium for the annual Chevrolet dealers' sales talk and elaborate banquet which was held at the Hotel Gibson in Cincinnati on Jan. 19.

B. F. Harden, manager of Harden-Stevenson Co., Chevrolet dealer in this section who attended this great Chevrolet affair was optimistic too in his praise for the new car and the plan of operation for the coming year.

To make the great dealer show possible more than a carload of special scenery was shipped into Cincinnati from Detroit for this occasion. Lights, drops, cars, elaborate curtains and other stage equipment was used as part of the show. A special crew of trained mechanics and a number of stage hands also accompanied the show officials from Detroit.

The officials were: Vice-Pres., R. H. Grant; General Sales Manager, H. J. Klinger; Wm. A. Blees, Manager Dealers' Finance and Accounting; J. H. Blackmore, Assistant Sales Promotion manager, T. E. Chancellor, Fleet Sales Division; D. G. Frazier, Manager of Service Promotion; William Powers of the Sales Department. 348-1t

10TH ANNIVERSARY WILL BE OBSERVED

Ohio Farm Bureau To Hold Annual Meeting During Farmers' Week.

Addresses by Gov. Myers Y. Cooper, Sherman Lowell of the United States Tariff commission and Charles W. Holman of the National Milk Producers Federation, and a pageant observing the tenth anniversary of the organization's founding, will be features of the annual meeting of the Ohio Farm Bureau federation. The meeting will be held in Columbus coincident with the first two days of Farmers Week at Ohio State university, February 4 and 5, according to advance announcement which has just been received by the Pickaway-co Farm bureau.

Monday sessions of the meeting will be held at the university as part of the Farmers' Week program, while Tuesday the farm bureau delegates will move to a down town hotel for their business sessions. Reports, resolutions, elections and discussions of general problems of the organization will occupy the attention of the delegates at the business sessions.

Both M. Lowell and Mr. Holman will appear on the farm bureau program Monday. Annual reports of President L. B. Palmer and Secretary M. D. Lincoln will be given early on the same morning's program. Farm bureau's of neighboring states will be represented on the meeting's program by Lewis Taylor, vice-president of the Indiana Farm Bureau and C. R. White, president of the New York State Farm Bureau.

The tenth anniversary pageant, which is being arranged and directed by Miss Verna Elsinger, home and community director of the Federation will be presented Monday evening.

Gov. Cooper will make his first appearance as governor before organized farmers when he speaks at the annual banquet of the organization Tuesday night. Miss Mary Mims of Louisiana, widely known in home and community work in rural circles, will speak on the same program.

Negro Dialects

"Lost Spirituals" explains that there are two separate and well defined negro dialects in Charleston. One is the Gullah tongue, spoken by negroes from the West coast of Africa and their descendants; the other, the speech of negroes brought into South Carolina from other colonies and later from other states. These dialects are gradually becoming merged.

Wall Failed of Purpose

The Great Wall of China was built more than 200 years before Christ in order to check migrations of the people of the Asiatic deserts and plateaus at times of excessive dryness. The wall, however, was powerless to keep the invaders out and time and time again when their lands suffered from unusual aridity vast hordes of nomads overran China, or parts of it.

One result of this has been that north China has been ruled by foreign dynasties for nearly half of the last 2,000 years.—Gas Logic.

Pollution Fatal to Fish

It has been pointed out that the visible pollution of the waste matter which floats in the river, covering its surface with an oily scum is not what drives away the better class of fishes. It is the slowly accumulating slimy covering of the stream bed that is fatal to the fish This kills all insect growth, thus making it impossible for the young fish to live, which kills off the fish even if the mature ones can live partly on sewage.

Best Position for Sleep

The public health service says that, in general, any position in which one is comfortable is a satisfactory position for sleeping. It is, however, considered better to sleep on the right rather than the left side because there is less strain on the heart. Sleeping on the back tends to cause pressure on the abdominal aorta which results, in some cases, in bad dreams.

ONTARIO GETS HUGE SUM IN LIQUOR TRADE

Canadian Province Finds Its Control Plan Pays Great Dividends.

TORONTO, Ont., Jan 18.—Ontario's liquor dispensing law, which places the sale of liquor into the hands of the provincial government, has, according to Sir Henry L. Drayton, head of the Liquor Control Board, solved the problem of achieving real temperance and respect for all laws.

"The opinion of the public in all parts of the province has been carefully solicited during the past six months," Sir Henry said in an exclusive interview with the United Press, "and universally, expressions of approval have been made with respecting the improved conditions under the present act as compared with the former prohibitory legislation. Bootlegging by any person to any great extent has been stopped.

"The revenue formerly obtained by these law-breakers is now received by the public treasury. The greatest advantage, however, and it is more important than any other, is the fact that a wholesome respect for the law has been engendered in the minds of the people, whereas during the last previous prohibition regime a disregard for the temperance act had crept in, which was slowly but surely influencing adversely the attitude of the people in regards to other laws."

The liquor dispensing act was passed in 1926 and went into effect in 1927. The law limits the sale of liquor only to those having permits to purchase spirits and specifies that bottled goods must be sold only from government stores. Public drinking is prohibited.

The province has netted $10,000,000 profit from the sale of liquor during the past 18 months, according to a report by the control board. Up to and including July 31, 1928, there were in operation in Ontario 100 liquor stores, 38 breweries, 99 brewers' warehouses and 51 wineries.

All profits accruing from the board's operations are paid into the provincial treasury. A large amount of this money has recently been expended in building new highways and repairing old ones, according to report.

POULTRY

MOLASSES HAS EDGE ON CORN

Good Results at Ohio Station Have Been Obtained.

Cane molasses in the poultry ration possesses certain distinct advantages over corn, when substituted for that grain in quantities up to 10 per cent of the ration. This has been established by two years of experimental work by the poultry husbandry department of the Ohio State university. The molasses has replaced corn on a pound-for-pound basis. "It has given equally good results in rations for starting and growing chickens, laying hens and fattening birds," says Prof. A. R. Winter of the poultry department, in discussing results of the tests.

In a test with laying hens, those fed on a ration containing 5 per cent of molasses laid 16.93 per cent more eggs than a group fed with corn and no molasses. At the same time the mortality among them was only 5 per cent as compared to 12.5 per cent among the hens which got no molasses. The test was carried on during the fall and winter months.

Growing chicks, at eight weeks of age, weighed 17.7 per cent more when fed a 5 per cent molasses ration, and suffered a mortality of only 7.32 per cent as against 12.39 per cent for chicks which received corn instead of molasses. When fed 10 per cent molasses the chicks weighed only 16.5 per cent more, but the mortality had been reduced 4.88 per cent.

"The cane molasses carries some vitamine B and furnishes carbohydrates in easily available form," says Professor Winter. "The potassium salts in the product serve as a mild laxative. It is believed that the carbohydrates create a condition in the intestine unfavorable to the development of coccidiosis and other harmful bacteria. This theory is under investigation at the present time."

Sprouted Oats Needed by the Laying Hens

"Sprouted oats for laying hens," is a formula that should be in every poultryman's feeding guide, says G. L. Stevenson of the South Dakota state college. It's not very expensive, either. However, it does require a warm room or basement.

Equipment needed for sprouting oats may be homemade. The boxes should be shallow, not over three or four inches deep. In preparing the oats for sprouting it should be soaked overnight in a bucket or tub. A few drops of formaldehyde added to the water in which the oats is soaked will prevent mold from developing. Moldy grain is often fatal to poultry.

After the oats has been soaked and drained it may be spread out in the boxes and kept in a warm room or in a heated sprouting device. In a few days when the oats sprouts have attained a length of two or three inches, they will be ready for feeding.

Coccidiosis Is Very Destructive to Chicks

Coccidiosis is a disease of the intestines and while it affects all birds it is especially destructive to chicks up to two months old. The cause is a microscopic organism. The transmission of infection from diseased to healthy birds occurs by contamination of the feed, water and ground. The coccidia multiply with great rapidity in the intestines and enormous numbers are discharged in the droppings.

The most prominent and characteristic symptoms in nearly all cases are white diarrheal discharges and the rapid wasting away of the affected birds. Adult birds have considerable resistance to this germ and the disease is frequently seen in the chronic form.

There is no satisfactory cure for this disease in young chickens.

Broody Hen Care

When several broody hens are sitting in coops close against one another, it may save much potential trouble if each bird is tethered by a long, thin cord from one leg to her nest box. This will insure that, after her spell off duty, she joins her own nest and not a neighbor's, as she is otherwise liable to do. A hen may settle down for a short time on a strange nest, but soon she finds out her mistake, jumps up, and so allows the eggs to be chilled.

Superior Green Bone

Green bone contains the natural juices as well as the adhering substances. This makes it superior to the bones that have laid on the ground for years, and lost all the natural juices or animal matter. Green bone, having the animal matter in it, is quite soluble and easily assimilated by the digestive organs of the fowl. It is an easy matter, since the introduction of the bone cutter, to prepare green bone and meat for the hens.

Cause of Fowl Typhoid

Thank your lucky stars if you've never met up with Eberthella sanguinarium. She's a germ that causes fowl typhoid, a most destructive disease. It acts like fowl cholera, the birds becoming dull, droopy, with pale combs and a greenish or yellowish diarrhea. Death usually isn't as rapid as with cholera. One mark of typhoid is that the liver enlarges and becomes a brownish or greenish color, while the kidneys look faded, as if cooked.

Another X-ray Use

Hidden defects and diseases in tree trunks are now revealed by means of an X-ray outfit which shows conditions that cannot be detected by ordinary examination.

Best Forms of Exercise

An exercise especially beneficial for one who is interested in weight reduction is walking—this means a vigorous walk of not less than two to four miles a day. Swimming is recognized as one of the best exercises for reduction of weight. Besides walking and swimming, golf and garden cultivation are also excellent. In performing all exercises for weight reduction try to avoid fatigue.

POULTRY

MOLASSES HAS EDGE ON CORN

Good Results at Ohio Station Have Been Obtained.

Cane molasses in the poultry ration possesses certain distinct advantages over corn, when substituted for that grain in quantities up to 10 per cent of the ration. This has been established by two years of experimental work by the poultry husbandry department of the Ohio State university. The molasses has replaced corn on a pound-for-pound basis. "It has given equally good results in rations for starting and growing chickens, laying hens and fattening birds," says Prof. A. R. Winter of the poultry department, in discussing results of the tests.

In a test with laying hens, those fed on a ration containing 5 per cent of molasses laid 16.93 per cent more eggs than a group fed with corn and no molasses. At the same time the mortality among them was only 5 per cent as compared to 12.5 per cent among the hens which got no molasses. The test was carried on during the fall and winter months.

Growing chicks, at eight weeks of age, weighed 17.7 per cent more when fed a 5 per cent molasses ration, and suffered a mortality of only 7.32 per cent as against 12.39 per cent for chicks which received corn instead of molasses. When fed 10 per cent molasses the chicks weighed only 16.5 per cent more, but the mortality had been reduced 4.88 per cent.

"The cane molasses carries some vitamine B and furnishes carbohydrates in easily available form, says Professor Winter. 'The potassium salts in the product serve as a mild laxative. It is believed that the carbohydrates create a condition in the intestine unfavorable to the development of coccidiosis and other harmful bacteria. This theory is under investigation at the present time."

Sprouted Oats Needed by the Laying Hens

"Sprouted oats for laying hens," is a formula that should be in every poultryman's feeding guide, says G. L. Stevenson of the South Dakota state college. It's not very expensive, either. However, it does require a warm room or basement.

Equipment needed for sprouting oats may be homemade. The boxes should be shallow, not over three or four inches deep. In preparing the oats for sprouting it should be soaked overnight in a bucket or tub. A few drops of formaldehyde added to the water in which the oats is soaked will prevent mold from developing. Moldy grain is often fatal to poultry.

After the oats has been soaked and drained it may be spread out in the boxes and kept in a warm room or in a heated sprouting device. In a few days when the oats sprouts have attained a length of two or three inches, they will be ready for feeding.

Coccidiosis Is Very Destructive to Chicks

Coccidiosis is a disease of the intestines and while it affects all birds it is especially destructive to chicks up to two months old. The cause is a microscopic organism. The transmission of infection from diseased to healthy birds occurs by contamination of the feed, water and ground. The coccidia multiply with great rapidity in the intestines and enormous numbers are discharged in the droppings.

The most prominent and characteristic symptoms in nearly all cases are white diarrheal discharges and the rapid wasting away of the affected birds. Adult birds have considerable resistance to this germ and the disease is frequently seen in the chronic form.

There is no satisfactory cure for this disease in young chickens.

Broody Hen Care

When several broody hens are sitting in coops close against one another, it may save much potential trouble if each bird is tethered by a long, thin cord from one leg to her nest box. This will insure that, after her spell off duty, she joins her own nest and not a neighbor's, as she is otherwise liable to do. A hen may settle down for a short time on a strange nest, but soon she finds out her mistake, jumps up, and so allows the eggs to be chilled.

Superior Green Bone

Green bone contains the natural juices as well as the adhering substances. This makes it superior to the bones that have laid on the ground for years, and lost all the natural juices or animal matter. Green bone, having the animal matter in it, is quite soluble and easily assimilated by the digestive organs of the fowl. It is an easy matter, since the introduction of the bone cutter, to prepare green bone and meat for the hens.

Cause of Fowl Typhoid

Thank your lucky stars if you've never met up with Eberthella sanguinarium. She's a germ that causes fowl typhoid, a most destructive disease. It acts like fowl cholera, the birds becoming dull, droopy, with pale combs and a greenish or yellowish diarrhea. Death usually isn't as rapid as with cholera. One mark of typhoid is that the liver enlarges and becomes a brownish or greenish color, while the kidneys look faded, as if cooked.

Another X-ray Use

Hidden defects and diseases in tree trunks are now revealed by means of an X-ray outfit which shows conditions that cannot be detected by ordinary examination.

TIGER TEAMS SET FOR FRAY

Boys Will Meet Washington and Girls To Play Lancaster Friday.

Friday night, the Circleville Tiger boys will battle Washington C. H. boys, while the girls play Lancaster girls. These games will be undoubtedly two of the best to be seen this year.

The Lancaster girls have an exceptionally fast team which the Tiger girls claim is the best team they ever played. Last Friday night the Circleville girls met defeat at their hands by a score of 13-10. So this week the girls are very determined to get Tiger revenge.

Washington C. H. always turns out a fast basketball team, so the boys will have quite a job on hand to dispose of them. But the Tigers, having lost their two starts in the league, are determined to win.

Miss Rains states that the girls have been practicing harder than ever this week to defeat Lancaster. Mr. Guthrie says the boys have a fine chance of winning over Washington C. H.

CHEVROLET FUTURE SEEN AS BRIGHTEST

"Never in the history of Chevrolet has the outlook been better. The remarkable new six cylinder valve-in-head car with its added power, acceleration, speed, smoothness and riding comfort offered in the price range of the four should enable both factory and dealer organizations to shatter all former records by a wide margin. The tentative production program of 1,250,000 units for 1929 will fall far short of the public demand for the car. This will be another Chevrolet year!"

This was the opinion of 700 Chevrolet dealers and bankers who gathered at the Emery Auditorium for the annual Chevrolet dealers' sales talk and elaborate banquet which was held at the Hotel Gibson in Cincinnati on Jan. 19.

B. F. Harden, manager of Harden-Stevenson Co., Chevrolet dealer in this section who attended this great Chevrolet affair was optimistic too in his praise for the new car and the plan of operation for the coming year.

To make the great dealer show possible more than a carload of special scenery was shipped into Cincinnati from Detroit for this occasion. Lights, drops, cars, elaborate curtains and other stage equipment was used as part of the show. A special crew of trained mechanics and a number of stage hands also accompanied the show officials from Detroit.

The officials were: Vice-Pres., R. H. Grant; General Sales Manager, H. J. Klinger; Wm. A. Blees, Manager Dealers' Finance and Accounting; J. H. Blackmore, Assistant Sales Promotion manager, T. E. Chancellor, Fleet Sales Division; D. G. Frazier, Manager of Service Promotion; William Powers of the Sales Department. 348-1t

Ohio Farm Bureau To Hold Annual Meeting During Farmers' Week.

Addresses by Gov. Myers Y. Cooper, Sherman Lowell of the United States Tariff commission and Charles W. Holman of the National Milk Producers Federation, and a pageant observing the tenth anniversary of the organization's founding, will be features of the annual meeting of the Ohio Farm Bureau federation. The meeting will be held in Columbus coincident with the first two days of Farmers Week at Ohio State university, February 4 and 5, according to advance announcement which has just been received by the Pickaway-co Farm bureau.

Monday sessions of the meeting will be held at the university as part of the Farmers' Week program, while Tuesday the farm bureau delegates will move to a down town hotel for their business sessions. Reports, resolutions, elections and discussions of general problems of the organization will occupy the attention of the delegates at the business sessions.

Both M. Lowell and Mr. Holman will appear on the farm bureau program Monday. Annual reports of President L. B. Palmer and Secretary M. D. Lincoln will be given early on the same morning's program. Farm bureaus of neighboring states will be represented on the meeting's program by Lewis Taylor, vice-president of the Indiana Farm Bureau and C. R. White, president of the New York State Farm Bureau.

The tenth anniversary pageant, which is being arranged and directed by Miss Verna Elsinger, home and community director of the Federation will be presented Monday evening.

Gov. Cooper will make his first appearance as governor before organized farmers when he speaks at the annual banquet of the organization Tuesday night. Miss Mary Mims of Louisiana, widely known in home and community work in rural circles, will speak on the same program.

Negro Dialects

"Lost Spirituals" explains that there are two separate and well defined negro dialects in Charleston. One is the Gullah tongue, spoken by negroes from the West coast of Africa and their descendants; the other, the speech of negroes brought into South Carolina from other colonies and later from other states. These dialects are gradually becoming merged.

Wall Failed of Purpose

The Great Wall of China was built more than 200 years before Christ in order to check migrations of the people of the Asiatic deserts and plateaus at times of excessive dryness. The wall, however, was powerless to keep the invaders out and time and time again when their lands suffered from unusual aridity vast hordes of nomads overran China, or parts of it.

One result of this has been that north China has been ruled by foreign dynasties for nearly half of the last 2,000 years.—Gas Logic.

Pollution Fatal to Fish

It has been pointed out that the visible pollution of the waste matter which floats in the river, covering its surface with an oily scum is not what drives away the better class of fishes. It is the slowly accumulating slimy covering of the stream bed that is fatal to the fish. This kills all insect growth, thus making it impossible for the young fish to live, which kills off the fish even if the mature ones can live partly on sewage.

Best Position for Sleep

The public health service says that, in general, any position in which one is comfortable is a satisfactory position for sleeping. It is, however, considered better to sleep on the right rather than the left side because there is less strain on the heart. Sleeping on the back tends to cause pressure on the abdominal aorta which results, in some cases, in bad dreams.

ONTARIO GETS HUGE SUM IN LIQUOR TRADE

Canadian Province Finds Its Control Plan Pays Great Dividends.

TORONTO, Ont., Jan 25.—Ontario's liquor dispensing law, which places the sale of liquor into the hands of the provincial government, has, according to Sir Henry L. Drayton, head of the Liquor Control Board, solved the problem of achieving real temperance and respect for all laws.

"The opinion of the public in all parts of the province has been carefully solicited during the past six months," Sir Henry said in an exclusive interview with the United Press, "and universally, expressions of approval have been made with respecting the improved conditions under the present act as compared with the former prohibitory legislation. Bootlegging by any person to any great extent has been stopped.

"The revenue formerly obtained by these law-breakers is now received by the public treasury. The greatest advantage, however, and it is more important than any other, is the fact that a wholesome respect for the law has been engendered in the minds of the people, whereas during the last previous prohibition regime a disregard for the temperance act had crept in, which was slowly but surely influencing adversely the attitude of the people in regards to other laws."

The liquor dispensing act was passed in 1926 and went into effect in 1927. The law limits the sale of liquor only to those having permits to purchase spirits and specifies that bottled goods must be sold only from government stores. Public drinking is prohibited.

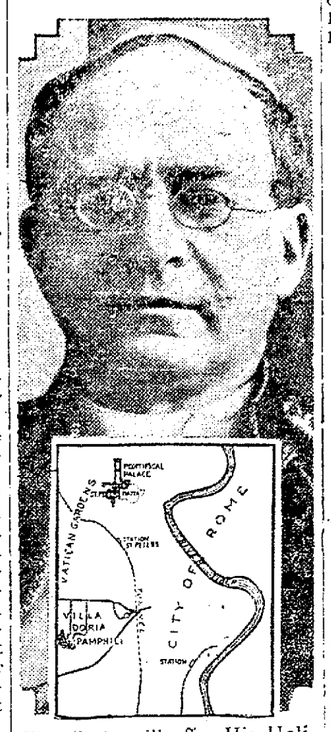
The province has netted $10,000,000 profit from the sale of liquor during the past 18 months, according to a report by the control board. Up to and including July 31, 1928, there were in operation in Ontario 100 liquor stores, 38 breweries, 99 brewers' warehouses and 51 wineries.

All profits accruing from the board's operations are paid into the provincial treasury. A large amount of this money has recently been expended in building new highways and repairing old ones, according to report.

Great Day in History

General O'Hara bore the sword of Cornwallis at the surrender at Yorktown. General Cornwallis suffered a sudden illness which prevented his appearing. General Lincoln received the sword, which was immediately returned.

Wins Concessions



That Italy will offer His Holiness, Pope Pius XI, an extension of territory lying Southwest of the Vatican gardens, including the villas of Bameleck and Doria-Pahphili, together with indemnity of roughly $52,631,600, is the unofficial report from Rome. The map shows the general outline of the present grounds and the adjoining territory to be added

"Smilin Through" Charms Audience Of Lecture Course

Splendid lighting effects and a realistic garden scene made a professional setting for the drama, "Smilin' Through" that was offered Wednesday night at Memorial Hall by the Circleville Lecture Course. A good audience enjoyed the three acts of this emotional fantasy, and the performance of five charming young actors.

Bob Hanscom, character actor, in the role of young John Carteret, and also as he fifty years later was particular genuine. The scene of the wedding night and its tragedy was especially well done. Here the comedy of Francis Daré, as the agitated best man was exceedingly true to life. Fifty years later too, as Carteret's best friend still, he added to the humor and pathos of the friendship of these two old cronies, who were so stubborn as well as loveable.

The heroine was played by Miss Frances Boreland. She took the part of both Kathleen Dungannon and of Moonyear Clare fifty years later.

The rejected lover, Eugene Thomas was realistic, as he frantically endeavored to win the girl he loved from another, on her wedding night. The shooting of Kathleen, when he meant to kill her intended husband, was the expected climax to such an emotional scene.

Elsie Hanscomb, was the maid, in the household at the time of the shooting as well as half a century later.

The story began with the two suitors for the hand of Kathleen, and John Carteret winning. He never marries, but carries the memory of his loved one, and the hatred for Jeremiah always in his heart. The latter marries, and it is his son, Kenneth, who falls in love with John's neice, Kathleen, who returns his love. John Carteret forbids her to even see her lover, and his hatred nearly causes a second tragedy, which is finally averted with the help of his old friend, Harding.

Young Wayne goes to war, after saying goodby to Kathleen who is broaken hearted at the parting which is marred by her uncles attitude. Her emotion and sadness cause many tears in the audience for it was so sweet.

However the war is ended with the Germans and Kenneth Wayne returns, ill but on the road to recovery, to the war that is still raging at home, Everything ends happily, and the last scene is that of old Uncle John submitting to his mistakes, and of the fantasy of seeing his Kathleen, as she looked on her wedding night. She is glad that he nas decided correctly, and welcomes him to her land, where once more they can be together.

Through the entire three acts, drifts the melody,
There's a little green gate,
At whose trellis I wait,
While two eyes of blue,
Come smilin' through, at me.

O. E. S. CELEBRATES 30TH ANNIVERSARY

The 30th anniversary of the Eastern Star was celebrated Tuesday night at the regular meeting of the local chapter. At this time five candidates were initiated. These were Mrs. Lewis Culp, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Gleadell, Miss Virginia Marion and Miss Reba Lee.

After this impressive ceremony Mrs. Merle Reichelderfer read the interesting history of the chapter during the past 30 years. As the chief speaker of the evening, the Rev. Franklin McElfresh of the Methodist church, spoke on "Women of the Bible."

Another feature of the program was the singing of Mrs. R. S. Hosler of Ashville, who was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. George Bentley.

During the social hour that followed, lunch was served in the dining room by the following committee: Mrs. Bert Lyle, chairman and Mrs. R. F. Lilly, Mrs. G. S. Corne, Mrs. Floyd Dunlap, and Mrs. Harry Stevenson.

Joined Voodoo Cult

W. B. Seabrook (above), noted explorer and writer, who, to obtain material for his book upon Haitien voodooism, lived with the primitive natives in the jungle for a year and a half. He was admitted into cult of voodooists, being the first white man ever to achieve that distinction.

Sugar Cane Data

The initials P. O. J. stand for Proefstation Oost Java, the earlier name of the planters' experiment station at Pasoeroean, Java. All sugar cane seedlings developed by this station are designated by those initials. The Department of Agriculture has obtained cuttings of practically all of these seedlings which from their parentage, disease resistance and general characteristics appear to have commercial possibilities for Louisiana.

Wishing Well Stone

The stone slab which covered the Wishing well in the hiding place of Fair Rosamund, Henry II's tragic love, was recently found in good condition at Blenheim palace, Oxford, England. Fragments of the old royal palace of Woodstock also have been discovered.

Disappearances in Paris

The great number of mysterious disappearances which take place in Paris every year is being discussed by one of the city's papers. It appears from the police records that on an average no fewer than 500 people disappear yearly in Paris without leaving any trace behind. And it must be added that in the majority of cases they have no connection with murder or crime, or any other known reason. They just vanish from the city and, so far as is known, from the earth altogether.

Ancient Wood Sculpture

One of the earliest specimens of wood sculpture extant is in the Cairo museum. With the exception of the arms, it is carved out of a solid block of sycamore wood. It is a life-size portrait statue, a double of the Sheik-el-Beled. The figure dates back to about 4000 B. C.
